

The chocolate maker by Jack K-B.

Do you want to taste the best chocolate you will ever eat in your entire life? Say no more, because the chocolate maker will make that dream come true. First you will need to flip all of the switches and levers to turn the device on. Then you will need to climb up the ladder to open the store cupboard with all the solid chocolate in there. Now that you flipped the lever for the conveyer belt it will start to function, the tray with the chocolate will be on top of it and it will move to the oven. For the oven to work you will need to press the green button. When the chocolate gets on top of it will stop for two minutes to make it a scalding hot liquid. Once the time is finished your chocolate will slide over to the fridge, it will be stored in there for half an hour to cool. The frozen chocolate will automatically exit the fridge hence the built-in timer. The last machine is the heater drone for 45 minutes the conveyor belt will stop and therefor the drone will be floating above your chocolate heating it up.

Finally there will be your very own topping stand hundreds of treats to put on your chocolate
